

Welcome to Total Preferred Supply, because emergencies and disasters are unpredictable, doesn't it make sense to be ready at all times?

And with the added threat of terrorist attacks since 911, it is especially important to be preparedness ready. With a few simple decisions now, you can greatly increase your chances of survival should some catastrophic event take place. Please take a few moments to browse through our survival kits, food storage, and emergency products for just the right package to fit your facility, individual or family needs.

Preparedness is how we change behavior to limit the impact of disaster events on people. Preparedness is a continuous cycle of planning, managing, organizing, training, equipping, exercising, creating, monitoring, evaluating and improving activities to ensure effective coordination and the enhancement of capabilities of concerned organizations to prevent, protect against, respond to, recover from, create resources and mitigate the effects of natural disasters, acts of terrorism, and other man-made disasters. Two simple measures can help prepare the individual for sitting out the event or evacuating, as necessary. For evacuation, a disaster supplies kit may be prepared and for sheltering purposes a stockpile of supplies may be created. The preparation of a survival kit such as a "72-hour kit", is often advocated by authorities. These kits may include food, medicine, flashlights, candles and money. Also, putting valuable items in safe area is also recommended.

Immediate response is essential to limiting injuries and loss. Make sure that your plan has been clearly communicated to employees and tested. Activate your communication plan to assure that all employees and visitors to your facility are accounted for, and make sure that First Responders have the critical information on the event and injured people. This phase includes the mobilization of the necessary emergency services and first responders in the disaster area. This is likely to include a first wave of core emergency services, such as firefighters, police and ambulance crews.

Response

The aim of the recovery phase is to restore the affected area to its previous state. It differs from the response phase in its focus; recovery efforts are concerned with issues and decisions that must be made after immediate needs are addressed. Recovery efforts are primarily concerned with actions that involve rebuilding destroyed property, re-employment, and the repair of other essential infrastructure.
